He was on striking work and on conviction in the discharge of his duties some special consideration appears to be very desirable in the deserving case in view of unforeseen catastrophe that has left the bread winner from the family.

13 In the case of Mr Vedathellam Pillai, Accounts Officer of Shimoga Dn., ~~Coorg~~ temporary service has been allowed to count for more a period of 4½ years for purposes of compassionate gratuity vide the case of Mr Krishna Rao last year in a long aggregate of 5 years service of over six years, a similar principle may be extended to this case, it being made very clear that this is to constitute no precedent

2. The calculation of the Compassionate Gratuity on the last pay of the deceased instead of on the pay ~~of the deceased instead of on the pay~~ as it stood on 1st July of each year and taking to account the total gross service instead of the net qualifying service for the purpose, both involve a departure from the existing rules and create an inconvenient precedent. The total service and the amount of last pay taken in arriving at Rs.1,368/- as compassionate gratuity payable to the family of the deceased on the above basis are, however, correct.

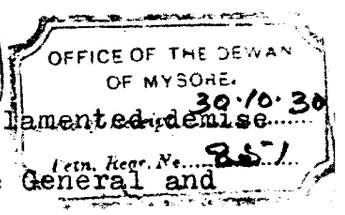
THE DEWAN OF MYSORE.

His case deserves sympathetic consideration in view of the tragic circumstances in which he died.
Ames
30.10.30

Respected Sir,



I beg to bring to your kind notice the lamented demise of my husband, M.Krishna Rau, Senior clerk of the General and Revenue Secretariat on the 12th instant under tragic circumstances. In appealing for the grant of a compassionate gratuity, I beg leave to prefer the following prayer with a fervent hope I may not have besought your sympathy in vain.

It is understood that the compassionate gratuity due to a deceased is computed on the basis of pay drawn on the 1st of July of each year of qualifying service of the officer. Application of this rule gives no relief worthy of mention, to me who is still hardly out of teens burdened with two children - one, a boy of 4 years and another, a girl of 4 months. He has left also a daughter by the first wife. My husband owned no house or any other property by way of lands; on the other hand, he had heavy liabilities to discharge in the way of paying family debts to the extent of over a thousand.

The laudable object of the Government in instituting the benevolent scheme of 'Compassionate Gratuity' will not help a sufferer like me, as the condition of qualifying service acts as a clog in the operation of the scheme as a relief measure. My husband joined service in 1918 and was made permanent only in 1925 and thus about 5 to 6 years of service rendered by him is likely to be ignored, as so much period which was either acting or subprotem will be left out of account in the calculation of the gratuity under the rules in force.

Such long acting service pending confirmation seems to be not uncommon in the Secretariat and the benevolent intention of Government will be frustrated if the technical condition of

of qualifying service is strictly applied, I request that orders may kindly be passed so that in calculating the pension the full period of service may be taken into consideration as an exception to the rules. I most humbly pray that (1) the gratuity due to me be calculated on the pay which my husband was drawing on 1-7-1930 and (2) that the service rendered by him in the General and Revenue Secretariat be taken as a whole in calculating the gratuity.

In the peculiar circumstances I also pray that a scholarship may kindly be sanctioned to my son for his Education.

I beg to remain,
Respected Sir,
Your most obedient servant.
